The National Park of Mount Panshan is located in Jizhou District, 135 km to the North of Tianjin. It is known as “the first mountain to the east of Beijing” and was once ranked as one of the fifteen famous scenic spots in China. The beautiful scenery of the mountain is characterized by its five peaks, eight special rocks and pine tree forest views. Emperor Qianlong of the Qing dynasty, frequently visited this place and he once said: “Had I known Mount Panshan earlier, I would not have taken the trouble to travel down to the south!” In recent years, a number of ancient buildings have been restored and a passenger cableway has been added, to encourage tourism.
